

What to know about HPV Immunizations

Human Papillomavirus (HPV) is a common sexually transmitted infection. Your child doesn't have to have sex to catch HPV, but it does increase their risk. While most HPV infections aren't harmful, some kinds can lead to genital warts or certain types of cancer. Getting your child vaccinated at the right time is the best prevention.

WHY IS HPV VACCINATION IMPORTANT?

- 33,700 cases of cancer could be prevented with HPV vaccination each year.
- Having the vaccine prior to becoming sexually active means a greater chance of avoiding HPV infections that lead to cancer later in life.

AT WHAT AGE IS HPV VACCINATION RECOMMENDED?

- It is recommended for people ages 9–26.
- Ideally, girls and boys should receive their first dose around age 11 or 12, but it is still proven effective in teens and young adults.
