Background

On Feb. 21, 2024, Change Healthcare was compromised by a cyber event. The cyber event is believed to be the largest ever reported in the US and affected approximately one-third of all US healthcare transactions.

Change Healthcare and United Healthcare (Change's parent company) announced on June 20 that they did experience a data breach as a result of the February cyber incident and are still investigating the scope and volume of data exposed.

Change plans to issue written letters to affected individuals beginning in late July.

In the interim, Change has posted a substitute notice to its website (available here), which includes an overview of the incident, types of information impacted, and steps individuals can take to protect themselves.
